KeyMacro is a new program from the former Hexalate, which contains an interesting feature. This utility allows you to use a macro, which consists of a keyboard combination, for switching between two menus and activation of the second option (for example, the pair "M" and "O"). This is extremely convenient, because the character key needs to be pressed and released only once and then you can continue to work on the second option. KeyMacro is an effective way to automate repetitive tasks and do a lot of work in an instant. To get the maximum effect from the program, you should install it in a system with a key-combination layout similar to the one described below: If you're not familiar with what a layout is and why you should install it, then a quick guide might be in order. LAYOUT METHOD 1 On the Windows 8, Windows 7 and Windows Vista keyboard, the layout is: The example is taken from a Windows 8 keyboard. On a previous Windows platform, such as Windows XP, the layout is: If you use a different keyboard layout, you will have to customize the program yourself. LAYOUT METHOD 2 KeyMacro also provides an alternative for users who use a similar layout (for example, the German keyboard): After installing KeyMacro, you can select "Saved Keys" from the main menu and then use the "Load" button to edit a macro. For each entry in the "saved keys" list, you will see the following information: - Name of the entry. - The abbreviation of the key combination (for example, "C" for Control). - The combination of the key. - The description of the key. - Where you can use the macro. - The key's key binding. - Activates the macro Once you have set the desired key combination, you will be able to use it again and again. By the way, if you need a keyboard layout for your laptop, you can easily switch to a better one by selecting the "Keyboard" tab and changing the layout. KeyMacro supports the following key combinations: (Ctrl + Shift + P), (Ctrl + Shift + S), (Ctrl + Shift + R), (Ctrl + Shift + D), (Ctrl + Shift + C), (Ctrl + Shift + Z), (1d6a3396d6
