People who relied on Uber for affordable transport in LA for the last 20 years or so would probably agree with us – the company has had a phenomenal effect on modern transport. When Uber first launched, we could barely imagine that there'd be a year like 2016 without it – for the first time since the automobile was invented, we had a decent option for getting from point A to point B quickly, safely and with a minimal commitment. And the possibilities opened up to us have been breath-taking. Any driver in LA now has access to
