Size: 4.4 Mb Filesize: 4.6 Mb (87% of 4.4 Mb) Date Added: Tue, 16 May 2012 07:34:46 GMT Description: iDictation is a feature-rich dictation application that captures words from user's voice and translates it to text. However, this language translation software is only suitable for people that want to use an Android smartphone or a tablet PC to generate text. Also, it is possible to edit texts created by iDictation, making it possible to proofread or fix spelling mistakes. When you start the application, you are asked to input language and input text. Then the software captures the first word that is naturally spoken out, or is recorded by pressing the microphone's button. iDictation should be run in the foreground, as background jobs cannot be started. By pressing the "next" button, you can continue listening for more words and the text that you wanted to translate. This feature comes with three language options and 45 languages to choose from. Also, there is an option for choosing a specific word. To automatically correct a text, there are a few choices, either edit the text or delete it and the software will repeat the translation for the same word. Once it is completed, there is an option to save the text and continue later. The deletion function is also useful, as it removes an unpleasant-sounding aa67ecbc25

Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a tone generation circuit for use in a communication apparatus, and more particularly to a tone generation circuit for use in a portable telephone apparatus. 2. Description of the Related Art In a portable telephone apparatus, analog signals are usually converted to a digital signal by an A/D (analog/digital) converter and the digital signals are processed with a digital circuit. There has been proposed a portable telephone apparatus for generating an electric field strength signal corresponding to an audio signal in a digital manner. The electric field strength signal is added to a digital DC (direct current) voltage, to cause the transmission signal to be transmitted. In the above-mentioned portable telephone apparatus, an output voltage (a direct current voltage generated by an electric field strength sensor) from the electric field strength sensor is directly added to a digital DC voltage, and the direct current voltage and the digital DC voltage are converted to an analog voltage. With such a configuration, the following problem arises: When the output voltage of the electric field strength sensor has an extremely high value, the problem is that the level of the voltage to be added becomes too high, which causes a problem in the distortion of the entire circuit. The above-mentioned problem is, for example, described in "Digital Portable Telephone System" by K. Murase and K. Takahashi, in Extended Abstract of the 18th International Conference on Electronics, (1990), I-36.2nd
